Excisions: Excisions Recommended But Not Made

Reasons for excisions:

An excision is necessary to remove depictions of sexual activity that degrade, demean and dehumanise the female participant to a high degree. The woman is degraded, demeaned and dehumanised by the activities, by the way that the scene is filmed and by the way that she is positioned and treated.

Summary of reasons for classification:

The DVD Anal Expedition 11 (Disc 2) is classified as:
Objectionable.

Anal Expedition 11 (Disc 2) is a DVD that presents depictions of sexual activity between men and women, with a particular focus upon the women's bodies.

The Classification Office required an excision to the DVD. The "Bonus Scene" on the publication presents images of a woman being sexually mistreated. The images include the woman's head being held down, being led on her knees for a distance during sexual activity and being subjected to a barrage of verbal abuse. The sequence presents a significant risk of injury to the public good because of the publication's association of degrading, dehumanising and demeaning behaviour with sexual activity. The publication is intended to facilitate sexual arousal for audiences of adult males. This association is likely to reinforce negative attitudes towards women in general. The distributor of the publication refused to make the excision and so the publication is classified as objectionable.

The Classification Office has considered the effects of the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act (1990) on the application of the classification criteria. The classification of objectionable interferes with adults' freedom of expression as set out in the Bill of Rights. However, this right needs to be balanced against the likely injury to the public good from making available a publication that promotes attitudes towards women that most New Zealanders would find disturbing and unacceptable. The classification of objectionable reflects the concerns of New Zealand's democratic society, as set out by Parliament in the Films, Videos, and Publications Classification Act 1993, that such publications should not be available. This is the minimum restriction that can be applied to prevent injury to the public good.
